Defence & Security · GS - III

Intelligence-led counter-terrorism operations are essential for protecting security installations and preventing attacks on security personnel. Examine the role of intelligence coordination and specialised forces in strengthening India's internal security.

EXAM YEAR	PAPER	SUBJECT
DAILY PRACTICE 18/11/2026	GS - III	Defence & Security

MARKS	WORD LIMIT
10	~150 words

Answer Hint

Intelligence gathering, CRPF, inter-agency coordination, human intelligence, technical surveillance, critical installations, counter-insurgency, local policing, community participation, accountability.

Model Answer

Introduction

The killing of Lashkar-e-Taiba commander Lateef Bhat in an intelligence-led operation in Kulgam, following an attack on a CRPF post, highlights the importance of coordinated counter-terrorism capabilities in Jammu and Kashmir.

Role of Intelligence and Security Forces

1. Preventive intelligence: Human intelligence and technical surveillance help identify terrorist networks, movement patterns and potential threats.
2. CRPF's operational role: The CRPF supports internal security, counter-insurgency and protection of vulnerable installations.

3. Inter-agency coordination: Information-sharing among local police, intelligence agencies and Central Armed Police Forces improves operational effectiveness.
4. Rapid response: Specialised training, secure communication and modern surveillance technologies facilitate timely action.
5. Network disruption: Intelligence-based investigations can identify recruitment, financing, logistics and support networks.

Key Requirements

- Strengthen coordination between local police and central forces.
- Improve intelligence assessment and timely dissemination.
- Secure vulnerable security installations through risk-based protection.
- Promote community engagement to improve local intelligence.
- Ensure operational accountability and protection of civilian rights.

Conclusion

Counter-terrorism effectiveness depends not merely on neutralising individual militants but also on disrupting the wider networks supporting terrorism. Intelligence integration, professional policing and institutional coordination are essential for sustainable internal security.

BECOME IAS
AI POWERED UPSC PREP